

NEW VISION CONFERENCE
POST-BUSH AMERICA AND THE WORLD: CAN THE GAP BE CLOSED?

October 2nd and 3rd 2008 - Hotel Amigo, Brussels – Belgium

With a new President entering the White House in January 2009, expectations are running high for a major shift in U.S. foreign policy. But how much change is likely? And will it be enough to close the gap between America and the world?

The conference, which marks the official launch of Carnegie Europe – the new pan-European foreign policy forum part of the Carnegie Endowment's new vision of pioneering the global think tank – will bring top analysts from the Endowment's offices across the world together with foreign policy leaders from Europe, Russia, the Middle East, Asia and the United States for a broad, sophisticated discussion on what the world wants from a post-Bush U.S. foreign policy.
